Courage

The ability to take constructive action in the face of fear or danger. To stand firm as a person of character and do what is right, especially when it is unpopular or puts one at risk.

Justice

Upholding of what is fair and right. Respecting the rights and dignity of all.

Respect

Regard for and defending the equal rights and inherent dignity of all human beings, including oneself.

Responsibility

Acting on good judgment about what is right or wrong even when it is not popular. Individuals must take care of themselves, their families, and their fellow citizens/others in civil society and a republic and be vigilant to preserve their own liberty and the liberty of others.

This is young Benjamin Franklin.

He went through the list of civic virtues four times every year. He thought it was better to improve slowly than to try to fix all his problems at once.

He practiced 13 civic virtues like respect, responsibility, justice, and courage though he called them other things.
